CHILD-MURDER FACING BRUTAL PARENT

INFANTICIDE CHARGED TO FATHER

Deaths of Two Korean Children Probed and Murder Is Indicated

As a result of testimony offered by Da Chu Fong and the contradictory statements made by the parents at the coroner's inquest held last night over the body of the infant daughter of Chin Kim Sut, a Korean, sufficient evidence has been gathered by Attorney Fred W. Milverton to hold the father to the Grand Jury on two charges of infanticide.

Further evidence, taken from the records of the Kaukoalani Children's hospital shows that on July 23, 1911, the six-week-old daughter of the same father, was brought to the hospital and treated for fractures of the legs and arms, alleged to have been received by the infant as the result of a fall.

On July 23, 1911, the child was discharged as well and returned to its parents, but six weeks later it died, supposedly as the result of the shock from its injuries.

Told Two Stories.

Shin Fong, the Chinese doctor who was called by the parents on Tuesday to attend the baby on whose body the inquest is now being held, testified that at that time the mother had told him that the child had been bitten by a "butterfly-winged cockroach," and that the child had not fallen, although the child's skull shows a circular fracture.

At the inquest last night the mother testified that she had told the doctor that the child had fallen from the sofa; the mother's ten-year-old daughter started to testify that "her mother had told her to say that the child had fallen," then she stopped and her voice ran into an unintelligible murmur which could not be heard by the Chinese interpreter. The seven-year-old son testified that he

NO MONEY FOR SOLDIER; WIFE FORCED TO BEG

Failure of Congress to Pay the Troops Drives Family to Ask Charity

WOMAN AND CHILDREN LEFT WITHOUT FUNDS

Associated Charities Gives Aid When Government Breaks Its Contract

"Although my husband is a non-commissioned officer in the United States Army and is doing active service on the mainland, I and my children are hungry, we can neither buy food nor pay our rent and are forced to beg charity in order to live," and this because the richest government in the world has failed to pay its soldiers.

This statement was made in the office of the Associated Charities to Mrs. A. C. Jordan, by an American girl born in Honolulu, who is the wife of a non-commissioned officer of higher rank in the United States Army, and on account of the failure of Congress to pass an army appropriation bill is unable to obtain money or credit to buy food for herself and her three children and until today had evicted staying her in the face.

Ordered to Coast.

The girl, who comes from an American family that has resided in Honolulu for some years, was married four years ago to a non-commissioned officer of one of the regiments then stationed here. Some months ago, her husband was ordered to the mainland and when they parted it was with the understanding that the wife was to come on to the Coast with the three children in June. But the last week in May, the president vetoed the army appropriation bill which has left the army without funds since June 1.

As the husband's stock of money dwindled, his remittances became smaller and finally ended altogether as he explained that he was totally without money. Gradually what money the wife had was used up and she was forced to fall back on her parents, who on account of their own circum-

WARRANT OUT, SO PUBLISHER FLEES TO OAHU

H. H. Tammen Wanted in Denver on Charge of Criminal Libel in City

OWNS DENVER POST AND 6-RING CIRCUS

His Partner Fined for Contempt but Visitor to Take Life Easy

Fleeing from service of a warrant calling him to appear before a Colorado tribunal upon a charge of criminal libel, H. H. Tammen, a man of millions and mines, capitalist, owner of the most widely circulated and sensational daily newspapers published in the Centennial State, the heaviest shareholder in one of America's greatest six-ringed circuses, is now a dweller in peace and quietude as a guest at the Moana Hotel.

His partner in the Denver Post, Frederick G. Bonfils, was but recently sentenced to jail and to pay a fine of $5,000 for contempt of court growing out of the libel proceedings.

"Yes, I am the publisher as well as proprietor of the Denver Post, a newspaper that comes pretty near saying just what it means," laughed Mr. Tammen, following a query launched at a Star-Bulletin man today about the newspaper situation in the Hawaiian Islands.

"There are no strings attached, and we generally hit right on from the shoulder when it is believed necessary."

Ahead of Warrant.

"I left Denver only a few weeks ago to avoid the serving of papers upon me, which charged criminal libel. On my arrival at the coast I simply could not avoid running into the vast amount of promotion literature sent out by your organizations here, and therefore decided on very short notice to try the Hawaiian Islands as a rest cure."

"I was on the verge of a general breakdown before leaving the Colorado capital. It was at the instance of my physician that I was induced to seek a change of scene and climate."

JOHN H. CRAIG RESIGNS FROM COMMISSION

John H. Craig, member of the liquor license commission, has tendered his resignation to Governor Frear. The Governor announces, however, that the resignation has not yet been accepted. It has been in the Governor's hands several days.

While Mr. Craig could not be located this afternoon it is understood that his principal reason for desiring to leave the commission is stress of private business. It has been known for several months that he has been wanting to resign and that he has given this as his reason.

ENGLAND WITHDRAWS FROM CONVENTION

Alexander & Baldwin, Ltd., received the following cablegram from its New York office this afternoon:

"England has given notice to withdraw from the Brussels convention in 1913."

"Cables report European beet crop having favorable weather."

"Refiners supply of raw sugar is sufficient for present needs."

"Present indications lead us to believe congressional legislation on sugar will be deadlocked, or whatever may be passed will be vetoed."

The man who falls out of an airship probably feels as badly hurt as the one who is thrown out of the political bandwagon.

Yes, Cordelia, a romantic man may be all to the good as a lover, but he isn't in it with the matter-of-fact man as a family supporter.

Every man hates a kisser unless the expostulation helps to get him something he wants.

Army Board Plans Mean Coin For Oahu

Experts on Fortifications Meet to Consider Problems of Defense

The board of army officers which is to formulate plans for an "impregnable Oahu" held its third session this morning, the two newly arrived officers, accompanied by Lieutenant Andrews, aide de camp to the department commander, making a short tour of investigation as they went. General Blakely, who knows every fort and battery on the island, did not accompany the board, the most important member of the general staff, arrived here yesterday.

All its deliberations will, of course, be strictly confidential. Information whatever it may be of arriving at conclusions. Some of the most experienced strategical specialists in the army are at work here, making history for Hawaii and for the entire country, for that matter, and it is only when the millions of money that will undoubtedly be expended here as

Hottest Day In Eight Years; Mercury Soars On August 1

Precipitation for July Lowest since 1871 with One Exception

"Yes, believe me, it was hot for Honolulu yesterday. It was the hottest day the city has experienced in at least eight years, and possibly more, the records as to that particular point not being available for the years preceding 1904," spoke William B. Stockman, section director of the weather bureau this morning. "The mercury climbed to 86 and 7-10 degrees apparently to make amends for the cool night preceding. At any rate the range between the temperature of the night before and yesterday was 17, which was unusual, although not a record."

CONKLING'S EXERTIONS PUT THROUGH ORDER ON BONDS

BY C. S. ALBERT.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

WASHINGTON, July 15.—D. Lloyd Conkling, treasurer of Hawaii, has succeeded in securing the completion of an order which will appreciate the value of Territorial securities and prove of advantage to capitalists.

Through his exertions President Taft finally approved the plan to permit the receipt of Territorial bonds as security for postal savings funds loaned to banking institutions.

An effort to secure this concession was pending for some time. It had been given the endorsement of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrew B. MacVeagh, but his sudden resignation and retirement. It was later accepted by Secretary MacVeagh, although coming from the hands of his disgraced assistant, at whom he was exceedingly angry.

Later, President Taft, added his approval to that of his subordinates and the order became effective.

The acceptance of Territorial bonds will be allowed up to par, or at their

TRUST PAPERS DISAPPEAR NOW

Havemeyer Correspondence on California-Hawaiian Deal Is "Missing", Says Hannam

(Associated Press Cable)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., August 2.—William H. Hannam, secretary of the Spreckels sugar corporation, was the final witness in the sugar trust hearing in San Francisco, which will end today unless something unforeseen occurs.

Hannam said that he was unable to find that portion of the correspondence of Henry Havemeyer, of the American Sugar Refining Company which referred to the lease of the Crockett refinery and the contract under which it closed for three years. He admitted that it was kept on a secret file. He said he had produced all the correspondence, it was possible to find.

Senate Listens To Rumors

(Associated Press Cable)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 2.—By an overwhelming vote, 81 to 4, the Senate today adopted the resolution introduced by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts reaffirming the adherence of the United States to the Monroe doctrine. The resolution is the result of the revival of the story that a business syndicate is trying to get a huge tract of land at Magdalena Bay, Lower California.

Honolulu To Get Branch Army And Navy Y. M. C. A.

Tichenor, head secretary of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A., Honolulu within a year will view of establishing a branch of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. according to Secretary Tichenor, a conference with the Navy Secretary in New York.

Secretary Tichenor, head secretary of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A., Honolulu within a year will view of establishing a branch of the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. according to Secretary Tichenor, a conference with the Navy Secretary in New York.

"It will be necessary to have three branches," said Secretary Tichenor this morning. "One at Pearl Harbor, one at Schofield Barracks and the other at Honolulu for the posts in the vicinity. There will have to be a building in Honolulu, as it will be impossible to use the present building in connection with the project at all, as the best results are not obtained by mixing the civilian and service associations."

"An army and navy secretary will be appointed by the international board, and it will be decided whether he is to be stationary or to travel from post to post."

"There is no question that an army and navy Y. M. C. A. is needed here. The things to settle are how to obtain the work, where and how many buildings to erect, and whether one, two or three secretaries will be needed. All these things will be decided when Mr. Tichenor comes here."

S. S. GLACIER DISCLOSES SECRETS LONG HIDDEN IN PACIFIC DEEPS

Lieutenant Commander Douglas Finds New Shoal Off Necker Island, and Corrections in Conformation of Gardner's Island

Secrets of the Pacific deeps, that have been hidden from navigators for more than 150 years, were disclosed by the U. S. Supply Ship Glacier, Lieutenant Commander Richard Spencer Douglas commanding, which arrived here last night after a record voyage from Yokohama.

A new shoal off Necker Island, which was annexed to the kingdom of Hawaii in 1894, and important corrections as to the conformation of Gardner's Island, were discovered by Captain Douglas, who sailed slightly to the southward of the great circle course between Yokohama and Honolulu in order to make soundings and observations in these little-known waters. The results of the detour will be of lasting value to navigation, as aids in locating the position of ships among the islands that lie to the westward of Hawaii.

It was 1786 that La Perouse discovered that strange dot on the Pacific known as Necker Island. It is described in the sailing directions as a rocky island about 1325 feet long by market figure. It is said by those here conversant with the securities indicated that their effective value as collateral will be increased approximately 8 cents on the dollar.

Now comes Captain Douglas in the Glacier, and discovers either a continuation of the bank with deep water between, or a brand new shoal no less than 14 miles to the northwest of this mysterious island, around which the people of Hawaii have woven so many queer legends and tangles of former times.

"We got 53 fathoms on this shoal, and then dropped right off into deep water," said Captain Douglas this morning. "The discovery is an interesting aid to navigation, and I have forwarded a full account of the observations and soundings to Washington."

Doesn't Travel By Wireless; Sammis Denies Weird Tale

Chief Marconi Engineer Not in Honolulu and Frisco on Same Day

Has F. Minturn Sammis, chief engineer of the Marconi system in America a dual personality? Has he through his researches in the field of science, discovered a method whereby he can transmit himself by wireless between Honolulu and San Francisco, rocked in the cradle of Hertzian waves?

It is up to Mr. Sammis to answer. This morning he was conversing with John Balch in the latter's office in Adams Lane in regard to plans for the great wireless station which his company will erect here. He has been in Honolulu since the first week in July and has been seen daily on the streets. Yet a San Francisco afternoon paper of the date of July 22 states that he arrived that day in San Francisco, presumably on the steamer Wilhelmina and prints quite an interview with the engineer as to the plans for the station on Oahu.

The day he was interviewed in San Francisco, he was interviewed in Honolulu by a representative of the Star-Bulletin.

"If I have a dual personality or am able to project myself through space, I am not aware of the fact," said Mr. Sammis this morning. "The science of wireless has many possibilities, but we have not been able so far to induce the sparks to carry either freight or passengers. I wish we could."

KOREAN LOVER FLOUNDERING IN SEA OF TROUBLE

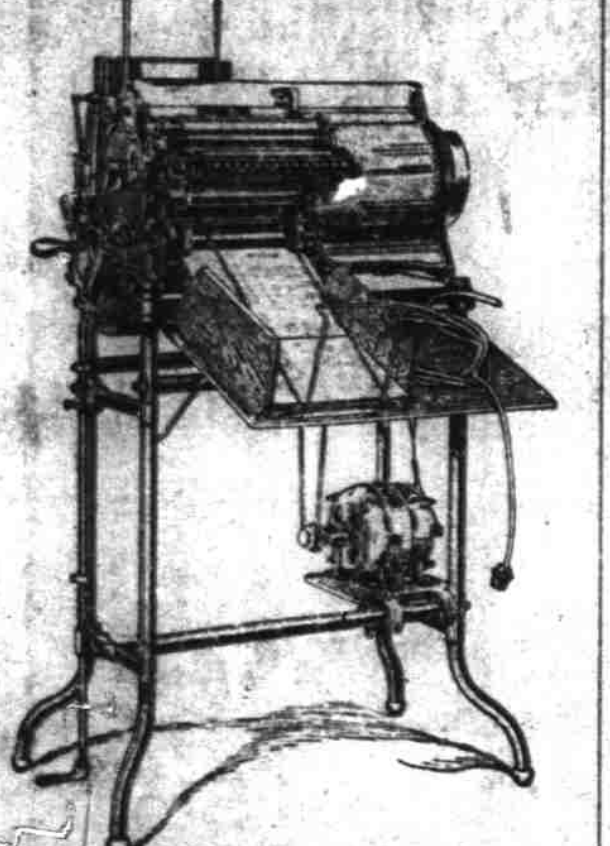

There is an old saying about a man's troubles, beginning when he gets married, but Kim Paw's troubles date from the night of July 24 when he attempted to elope with See Mey Soong and was driven from the premises by Ah Soong, her father, and a shot gun.

No sooner was Ah Soong released from custody yesterday morning and freed of the charge of "assault with a deadly weapon" preferred by Kim Paw than he held a hasty conversation with Attorney Charles Chillingworth with the result that a warrant will be sworn out for Kim Paw, charging the lovesick swain with unlawfully being on the premises of Ah Soong.

The compliant further alleges that his daughter is thirteen years of age instead of eighteen, and that being a minor her invitation did not warrant Kim Paw being upon the Kahulu premises of Ah Soong.
